

It's not what you are, it's who you are!

The inner guide that seems to redirect us even though we don't seem to know what to do is GOD. The trust is within us, yes even though He seems a million miles away, still He is right there listening, watching and caring for all of us. No matter where you go He's still there with you. It may be in the form of an angel who was sent to protect you, a friend to comfort you, a pet to keep you company and even in the form of music or any other way in which He may choose to convey His presence. At times we expect Him to be larger than life and yet He could be right there comforting you and you don't even notice because you're waiting for lightning to strike. It's like looking for your keys yet they were in your hand all the while. He cares for us even though we are less than perfect. No matter what we've done or haven't done, He still loves us. It doesn't matter our race, sex, occupation or religion, we are all precious to Him. He loves us all and it's not what we are that He care, it's who we are.
